

Invitation and Call for Papers

The Institute for Advanced Studies in Vienna will hold a

Workshop on Extensive Form Games in honor of Harold Kuhn

at its venue on June 11-12, 2012

The workshop represents a continuation of the series of small conferences that the Institute has hosted in previous years (for a synopsis see page 3). This time the workshop is dedicated to Harold Kuhn's contribution to game theory in particular and to economics in general. Harold Kuhn may be attending the event or may join us by video-conferencing.

If you wish to attend the conference, please contact

economics@ihs.ac.at

for registration and information on accommodation. If you wish to present a paper please also send the manuscript or at least an abstract to

Klaus Ritzberger (ritzbe@ihs.ac.at) until March 1, 2012.

There is no registration fee. The program will be announced in March 2012.

There will be presentations of about 45 minutes each during the two days, allowing for enough time to discuss each paper. Lunches will take place in a nearby restaurant. On one of the evenings there will be a visit to a “Heurigen” (a typical Viennese wine and food place) with ample opportunity to socialize.

The conference venue is Lecture Hall II (HS II) at the Institute for Advanced Studies, Stumpergasse 56, A-1060 Vienna. If you arrive by plane, there is a very convenient bus service from the airport to “Westbahnhof” (the railway station) that drops you within walking distance from the conference venue.

If you need help with booking accommodation in a nearby hotel and to confirm your participation, please contact our Department Manager Elisabeth Potzmann at economics@ihs.ac.at and let her know your preferences (single or double room, etc.) and any dietary restrictions that you may have. Early booking is essential, because Vienna is a very busy tourist destination. Confirmation of your attendance is also required in order to allow us to plan appropriately. Please note that only papers, whose presenters have confirmed their participation, can be included in the final program.
